

Why it's important to have a Primary Care Physician article

What is a Primary Care Practitioner or PCP?

A Primary Care Practitioner (PCP) is a physician whose principle medical specialty is in Family Practice, Internal Medicine, General Practice or Pediatrics. Your PCP is your partner in managing and coordinating your health care services. He or she works with a team of health care professionals, which may include physician assistants and nurse practitioners, to provide your treatment.

To find a PCP near you:

- visit univerahealthcare.com
- and click on “Find a Doctor”
- you can also search for Specialists, Dentists, Urgent Care Centers, Pharmacies or even compare hospitals

Find a Doctor or Hospital

Find a Doctor or a Specialist go Search our comprehensive provider directory to find a doctor or specialist who meets your needs.	Get Help Finding After Hours Care go Check out these urgent care centers when your doctor's office is closed.
Find a Pharmacy go Search our national network of more than 60,000 participating pharmacies. 	Compare Hospital Quality go Compare performance and cost at hospitals nationwide.

univerahealthcare.com